The concept of a pump house is directly associated with the flow of water which is achieved with JJB's clay bricks.

Beautiful in form and feature, lovely as the day, can there be

“Clay is a very interesting and fundamental material: it's earth, it's water, and - with fire - it takes on form and life.”

“Architecture is really about well-being. I think that people want to feel good in a space... On the one hand it’s about shelter, but it’s also about pleasure.”

I LIKE AN ARCH

You say to a brick, 'What do you want, brick?' And the brick says to you, 'I like an arch.' And you say to the brick, 'Look, I want one, too, but arches are expensive and I can use a concrete lintel.' And then you say: 'What do you think of that, brick?' Brick says: 'I like an arch.'

"The house is a perfect epitome of how a plane curtains itself. It stands out and connects to surroundings – both at the same time! The brick façade provides an ideal backdrop for the living area"

“Most materials have their own special characteristics and if used honestly and simply they contribute to the “looks” of a building merely from their colour, their texture and the patterns formed by joining them together. There is no need to cover them over with costly finishes. Let a brick wall look like a brick wall.”
